The convention in Stuttgart will additionally feature a number of innovative exhibition highlights from the slide manufacturing sector. One such manufacturer is the Turkish Polin company, making its debut appearance at interbad. Polin will be presenting its brand new "King Cobra" attraction, which it premiered to the public at the Asian Attractions Show in Kuala Lumpur. Both the model and the simulation video of this new water slide and its exciting optical effect are certain to generate a wave of interest at the company's stand. Polin will additionally be presenting three different variations of tube slides manufactured using the RTM (Resin Transfer Molding) process.

With increasingly more water recreation operations being built in accordance with the Passive House Standards and with energy costs growing in significance, the Klarer company is once again featuring water slide heating insulation as a main topic. Other main

interbad 2010

It was a record: The last interbad convention in Stuttgart two years ago boasted more than 442 exhibitors, a record for the event. Since 2008, Messe Stuttgart has held the event exclusively in the halls of its new convention center near the local airport.

More than 16,000 visitors attended the last convention in 2008. This year, interested industry insiders have four days in October to explore the four interbad halls and find out all about the latest new products and industry trends. This year features the debut of the Theme Park Spa Area, a special exhibition area with its own forum for speakers and presentations. The Spa Market Conference, making its third appearance, has now become an established component of the interbad convention primarily focused on owners and the management staff of "Stay Spas" and "Day Spas". With all this concentrated information, anyone needing a little time to exchange ideas with others instead of just listening to speeches will be welcome and well looked after at the European Waterpark Association (EWA) stand. As the leading lobby for European recreational pool operations, spas and water parks, the EWA stand will be located in Hall 8, Stand C71, where its leadership will be on hand for talks with its members and interested parties from the industry.
